WHAT Personal Qualities And Skills Are Required To Become A Skilled EARLY CHILDHOOD PROFESSIONAL?

STRONG INTERPERSONAL & COMMUNICATION SKILLS

Teachers and educators need to be able to communicate with children in a way that is age-appropriate. It is also important to develop skills in communicating with families about their children's skills, abilities, and achievements to provide the best learning experiences for their child.

PASSIONATE, AUTHENTIC & LOVE LEARNING

You will need to have a love of teaching, but also a love of learning. Children will respond well to someone who is passionate about teaching and helping them learn. Strong dedication and devotion to your work will lead to great learning outcomes for children.

RESPECT CHILDREN & FAMILIES

It is important to respect that every child and their family is unique. Being aware of, and working with, the different strengths of each child can make you a more effective teacher or educator who is able to support each child to learn in their own way.

CREATIVE, FUN-LOVING ATTITUDE & ENERGETIC

The key to being a quality educator is being able to think outside the box to develop and deliver great learning outcomes for all children in your care. This is important as you will need to develop skills to engage children and families in a number of ways. An energetic and creative teacher or educator will help children stay positive about learning every day. Learning should always be fun and laughter can often help children learn.

ORGANISED

You need to be able to plan well and stay organised. Children want routines and seek interactions from you that promote a positive learning environment.

FLEXIBILITY

Even the best early childhood teachers will go off course throughout the day due to unforeseen circumstances or learning hiccups. While creating a lesson plan to outline important concepts that should be addressed in curriculum is important for any classroom, even the best plans sometimes don't happen the way we hope. Being flexible can help lessen stress levels and keep things on track.
